

Foster Certificate

Case History

Jenny is a baby, black and white bunny who was taken to an animal emergency clinic. She was abandoned there because her care giver did not wish to pay to repair her broken leg. Poor Jenny had been dropped.

Jenny is a brave little bunny who hops and plays as best she can with a large cast on her right hind leg. Her leg will heal but will be shorter than the left one so she will have a limp.

This little bunny will need several more months of veterinary care before she can be spayed and adopted. She is curious and outgoing little rabbit who loves to be petted.
